Saraswathi Vandanam - Varade Veena Vaahin Varade

This song praises the Goddess of knowledge, Saraswathi, the holder of the Veena. She is seated on a white lotus and wearing white apparel, and holding the books in her hand. ### Madhava Panchakam

This colorful dance number was first introduced by SAGE NARADA. It is a beautiful song on Krishna, with musical arrangements by Kanagamani Vijayendra. The meter and measure lend themselves beautifully to the descriptive verses on Krishna, the dark Lord. He was a mere cowherd in the enchanted Vrindavana forest, but the world praises the beauty and charm of this prankster who played mischief in the Land of Gokula.

INTERMISSION

Nagumomu

is a beautiful PADAM in the language 'Telugu' and it is a rendering of the master craftsman, one of the musical trinities, St. Thyagaraja. The devotee calls upon Shri Rama, the incarnation of the Lord preserver to come speedily to Him. Is Garuda, your divine vehicle, causing the delay by making excuses that the distance between the skies and the earth is too vast?

Ragam: Abheri Talam: Adi Composer: St. Thyagaraja

Bhootha Mothe

A Ninda Sthuthi which is quaint in the thought it conveys. It is both cute and devotional in its content. Here the poet urges those pilgrims who attempt to go to Pandarpur in Maharashtra to be aware of the large ghost that might possess them. Those who have crossed the large field filled with Kesar trees are not aware that lurking around is a ghost that might grab them. Pilgrims who have gone to Pandarpur have never returned from this land of Pandari Natha.

Ragam: Chandrakauns Talam: Chathusra Ekam

Kalinga Nardana Thillana

It is believed that sage Narada witnessed the wondrous dance of Krishna upon the hoods of the venomous serpent Kalinga. This was witnessed by the divine cows Nandini and Patti, children of Kamadhenu. Sage Narada prayed to Krishna to remain in the village of Oothukadu, and hence it is believed that Lord Krishna remained there. The composer Oothukkadu Venkata Subba Iyer was a saintly poet of Tamil Nadu the 18th century.
